present standard no one can foretell, but there is no indication of any speedy improvement. The decrease in duties has been large at all of the ports, but of course is most conspicuous at New York, although the ratio of de-crease here is by no means the greatest. We annex a brief comparison of the monthly revenue from customs at

From this it will be seen that the decrease at this port alone during the last four months amounts to over seven million dollars, the deficiency being the most strongly marked during the last two months, with no prospect of any important reaction for some time to come.

In these circumstances the government has no recourse but to borrow. No change of the tariff could affect the receipts until trade revives, and there is not time for such prospective relief. Whether the loan will be applied for directly by the sale of government stocks, or the means be obtained through the medium of treasury notes, we cannot say; but we presume that the consent of Congress will first be obtained for the adoption of the last-named remedy, inasmuch as such an issue could be regulated according to the actual deficiency, and no more money borrowed than is absolutely required. The good faith of the government in financial matters has been so often tested that the credit of the United States stands very high, and pital can be readily obta No factions opposition to the early adoption of some measure of relief need be apprehended. Apart from the clear majority which the administration has in both which allows members of Congress to draw two-thirds of their annual stipend on the opening of the session will tend to shorten any opposing debate. The money for such a pay-ment, as well as that required for the interest on the pub-lic debt due January 1st, cannot be obtained until the act of relief is adopted.

From the Mauchoster Guardian. THE MORMON DIFFICULTY IN ENGLAND.

Associated Mades & sectional V

England is not altogether alone in her contest with rbarism. Extremes meet, and in the furthest West, as well as in the East, a nation in the first rank of civiliza-tion is engaged within its own dominions in an armed contest with polygamists and the worshippers of false prophets. The Delhi of the United States is at Descret, and its Great Mogul is the Caliph Brigham Young. The and its Great Mogul is the Camph Brigham Young. The ugliness of the undertaking imposed on the government of Washington by the constitution and pretentions of the Mormon community does not wear off as the undertaking itself approaches maturity. Our readers are aware that so long ago as the spring of the present year an expedi-tion of federal troops was despatched on the delicate mis-sion of bringing the elders to order, and taking account of the repeated outrages upon the laws and dignity of the republic, which have been perpetrated under their au-thority. If report may be trusted, the prospects of this enterprise can have been little to the taste of the heroes to whom it was intrusted, for desertion is said to have gradually brought them down to a fraction of their original strength. Some color is undoubtedly afforded to this July that the commander of the expedition, whose head-quarters were then established at Fort Leavenworth, in Kansas, resolved to despatch a military emissary to Utah to survey the ground, politically and strategically, pre-paratory to the further advance of the army of order. The report of the intelligent officer deputed to this duty has just been published, and the state of things to which it bears witness is not a little curious, taken in conjunc-tion with the nominal relation subsisting between the lo-cal authorities of Utah and the President of America. To Illustrate the character still claimed for this connexion, illustrate the character still channed for this connection, we may observe that the same journal which publishes a copy of the report contains a despatch just received at the Indian department of the central government from Brig-ham Young, in which he insists upon knowing why his drafts for the pay and perquisites due to him as an officer of the United States are not regularly honored.

It is evident that Captain Van Vliet believed himself to se in an enemy's country within the territory of the writer. Perhaps our readers will think that there was some substantial ground for this impression. The journey from Fort Leavenworth to Great Salt Lake city occupied the gallant captain thirty-three days and a half. On his way he met many people from Utah, and others from the neighboring districts, all of whom informed him that he could only enter the Mormon paradise at the risk of his life, but that there was no probability of his being al-lowed to enter at all. These warnings he bravely disregarded for his own sake, but pushed forward without hi scort. He thinks it worth while to notice that he was greeted with courtesy due to an honorable foe. Captain Van Vliet soon found, however, that the accomplished successor of Joe Smith is a potentate who wears the fa-miliar glove of velvet on the hand of iron. In his first, and in all succeeding interviews, the governor made known, in very plain and unmistakable language, his views with regard to the approach of the United States troops. The United States officer represented that, though the scanty force which was within a month's march might very possibly be prevented from getting through the mountain passes at a late season of the year, the President would next year send troops sufficient to overcome all opposition. All this was admitted to be not only possible but certain to happen; but the answer invariably was: "When those troops arrive they will find Utah a desert—every house will be burned to the ground, every tree cut down, and every field laid waste. We have three three years provisions on hand, which we will cache, and then take to the mountains, and bid defiance to all the powers of the government." The solution of the embarrassment is by no means apparent. It is evident that the fanatical community have been successfully inspired with the conviction that the vindication of the federal authority is only a pretext for the recommencement of the persecution by which they suffered so bit terly in Illinois and Missouri. Supported by this belief, they will not be easily subdued; but the difficulty of reng them to order is not to be evaded merely because It is one which a stronger government than that of the United States will willingly be spared.

THE SHOE TRADE OF LYNN.—The Boston Herald gives The Shor Trade of Lynn.—The Boston Herald gives the following facts in regard to the shoe trade of Lynn:
"The manufacture of shoes, as a business, was commenced in Lynn in the year 1759—of course in a very small way, and at the time might be called only a local business. Since that day a very great change has come over our people, and that which in its incipient stage could hardly be called one of the manufactures of the State, is now considered as among the most prominent of the country.
"During the year 1850 there were manufactured in "During the year 1850 there were manufactured in Lynn more than ten million pairs of ladies', misses', and children's boots and shoes. The nett amount of sales was more than five million dollars, and the number of males and females employed by our manufactures, in and out of the city, was more than twenty thousand. Many of the city, was more than twenty thousand. Many of our manufacturers employ more operatives than some of the largest cotton and woollen mills in New England, which make a village, and yet the business in no case is carried on by corporations. Each manufacturer carries on his one business were the control of the control on his own business upon his own capital. And the only machinery used is the sewing machine by females, and the cutting and splitting machine by the male operatives; which have somewhat aided to lessen labor, while at the

which have somewhat aided to lessen labor, while at the same time the operatives can earn the more money.

"The sales of our goods are made on six and eight months' credit, and to every city in the Union, to the Canadas, and for export to some foreign ports.

"Most of the sole leather used by our manufacturers is tanned in Maryland and Pennsylvania; the goat skins imported from Calcutta and South America, while the lastings, galloons, &c., are taken from the great marts of England."

Edward Powers, a young man, was killed instantaneously on Saturday morning week, at the Wootlen Mill wharf, Newport, while engaged in discharging a cargo of coal. He was shovelling coal immediately under a very heavy platform, which by some means broke away from its fastenings in the rigging, and fell with great force, and struck this man, with several others, prostrate upon the deck. When Powers was taken up blood was flowing from his mouth and nostrils. He breathed a few movements and then expired. John W Davis see, held a from his mouth and nostris. He breathed a few mo-ments and then expired. John W. Davis, esq., held a coroner's inquest, and the jury returned a verdict of death by misfortune, in accordance with the facts. There is something remarkable in the case above noticed, the young man being the fifth member of his family who has died by casualty. His father was killed while quarrying stone; two years since a brother of his was killed at Fall River, and a young girl was gored to death in this city by a cow, and at last the afflicted mother is called upon to receive the mangled remains of her last boy. Although a woman in humble life, few, we think, can withhold a deep feeling of sympathy for her unusual misfortune.

The Merrimac Manufacturing Company have erected a mammoth new mill in Lowell, which will be ready for running in about three months. It will contain about 22,000 spindles and 504 looms.

OBGANIZATION DAY .- The weather yesterday was deightful, and at an early hour crowds of spectators, with the members of the new Congress, thronged Pennsylvania avenue, on their way to the Capitol. The galleries of both the Senate and the House were filled, and there was an unusually large congregation of gentlemen connected with "the press," among them Mr. Filmore, the corres-pondent of the "London Times."

The proceedings in the Senate and the House are reported elsewhere; but we cannot refrain from mentioning the atisfaction with which the spectators in the galleries, as rell as the representatives more directly addressed, lisened to the brief yet comprehensive address of Mr. Speak er Orr on taking the chair. The dignified and expediious manner in which he subsequently conducted the usiness of the House gave rich promise of an efficient and really-useful session.

THE NATIONAL HOPEL. This well-known establishent, having been drained, purified, and ventilated until horoughly freed from the effects of the "poisoning" of ast year, is again open as a hotel. It has also been pa ered, painted, and thoroughly refitted, under the direcion of F. Tenney & Co., its present landlords, who are centlemen of experience as hosts, and well qualified to cater for the wants of sojourners with them. The drawing-rooms are furnished in magnificent style—one in olors are blended, and with mirrors fit for the saloons of in Emperor. The furniture of the private parlors is equally splendid, and the bedrooms are fitted up with very convenience, transferring, as it were, the comforts of private life to a public house. The kitchen depart-ment has been entirely reformed, and the tables are supplied with every variety of good things. We wish the

It is proposed to celebrate the coming forty-third anniversary of the society by a ball or a supper, either of which will doubtless be a brilliant affair.

FIREMAN'S BALL.—The Franklin Fire Company gave he first of a series of dancing assemblies at their new hall last night, and among their guests were several representatives from the Weccaco Engine Company, of Phila-delphia, which, it will be remembered, showed marked attention to the "Franklins" when in Philadelphia. New York, Dec. 7.—The pressure on the Bank of England was gradually diminishing, and there were signs of a relaxation in the discount market. Money was abundant at 6 a 7 per cent on the Stock Exchange. There were rumors of the probable funding of exchaquer bills.

Fugitive-Slave Care in Indiana.

Fugitive Slave Case in Indiana.

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 4.—Fight days since the agents of Dr. Vallandingham, of Frankfort, Kentucky, captured a fugitive slave at Naples, Illinois. While en route for Kentucky the negro was taken on a writ of habeas corpus before Judge Wallace, who ordered his release. He was, however, again arrested and taken before United States Commissioner Rea, who, after hearing the case, decided that the fugitive must go back to skevery again. The fugitive was then rearrested on a writ issued by Judge Wallace, before whom some nice questions of State sovereignty are now being discussed. It is claimed by the counsel for the fugitive that he is free under the fugitive slave law and the Dred Scott decision, as well as under the State constitution. In the mean time Dr. Vallandingham has been arrested on the affidavit of the fugitive. dingham has been arrested on the affidavit of the fugitive, charging him with the crime of kidnapping. The latter case is now in progress before Mayor Wallace.

INDIANOPOLIS, Dec. 5.—An immense crowd assembled at the senate chamber this morning to hear the decision of Judge Wallace on the fugitive slave case. The judge decided that he could not traverse the decision of the commissioner, and the negro was remanded back to slavery. The United States marshal started with the negro this evening for Louisville, where he will release him to Vallandingham. The case before the mayor against Vallandingham for kidnapping has been dismissed. The excitement is great, and some difficulty is apprehended at the cars. No attempt at a rescue, however, has been made.
